ENENSYS Provides T2 Gateways and ASIGuard Seamless Switches for MEDIACORP DVB-T2 network launch in Singapore

ENENSYS has announced that it has supplied its T2 Gateway and ASIGuard Seamless Switches to MediaCorp in Singapore for use in their DVB-T2 digital terrestrial TV network. The new DTT network, launched at the end of 2013 provides outdoor reception of MediaCorp's seven channels throughout Singapore. Additional transmitters in one Single Frequency Network (SFN) are being progressively rolled out over the next 3 years, providing indoor TV reception throughout the island city.

The ENENSYS T2 Gateways enable MediaCorp to use the latest version 1.3.1 of DVB-T2. The ASIGuard seamless switches are used at both the head-end and transmitter sites to switch between main and backup systems, ensuring a very high level of overall network availability.

Colin Prior, Regional Sales Manager for Enensys said, 'We are delighted that MediaCorp has selected Enensys DVB-T2 technology at the core of its new digital terrestrial network, enabling delivery of HD content to the Singapore audience'.
